The John Hammond Descendants Who Lived in Illinois

Much of the Information concerning this family was given to me by Fern Amundson of Nekoosa, who descends from John's son, George.

John Hammond was the son of David Hanumond and Susan Hinkley. He was a brother of Nathan and Jonathan Hammond. He is first listed on the Cortland County census in 1830, at which time he gives his age as over 30 but under 40, setting his birth between 1790 and 1799. One of his old sons, Jonathan, lists Delaware County, N.Y., as his birth place, so no doubt John met and married his wife, Pheoby Smith, there. Pheoby was the daughter of Silas Smith and his wife (unknown) Hoenstead. Pheoby had a sister, Betsy Smith, who married a John Boughton, a sister Sally, who had 3 husbands: John Morrison, Charles Dillingham and Fillinger Bennett, a brother Barsley Smith and a brother, Silas Smith.

John died from a fall. He was working and fell off a boat. This, no doubt, happened after 1840 but before 1850 as the last mention I find of John is on the 1840 census.

John's children and marriage are noted on his family sheet. Eben Hammond (born about 1820) married Sally Morse and lived in Boone County, Illinois. See also family sheet for names of his children and their wives. Eben's son, Owen, was an inventor and did pretty well. Among other things, he invented a button-hole for sewing machines and a craftsman's pencil sharpener that sharpened sharper than the ordinary sharpener.

The following paragraph concerning Eben's son, Wilbur, was taken from the book "Belvidere Illustrated," copyright 1896. A picture accompanies the article: Hammond the Healer, page 167.

"Belvidere has been widely advertised by Wilbur Hammond, the healer whose marvelous cures have astonished all who have heard of them. Many refuse to believe that Hammond can heal by his magnetic touch, but recorded cases of cures stand as evidence. Hammond was born north of the city on a farm. He has always taken a deep interest in spiritualistic matters. Not until about a year ago, did he discover his power of healing. He goes into a trance and claims to be controlled by a deceased German physician. Patients from far and near flock to Belvidere to be treated by the healer."

Some of John Hammond's children, after spending a time in Illinois, went to other states.

SOCIETY SURNAME LISTING

The surname list is compiled by Surname, Date, Place of Birth and Death of ancestors done on a pedigree chart and turned into Barbee Hodgkins, 541-298-7261. If you need blank pedigree charts to fill out, contact either Barbee or Verneice Adams, 509-767-1554.

When submitting your pedigree chart, there needs to be a year(s) and an area (county and state) associated with the surname. If these are unknown when you submit a pedigree chart, we count back 20 years from the birth of the first descendant. That date will be used with a question mark. The same area as the birth of the first child will be used for the area.

The compiled Surname Lists are on the shelves of the Genealogy cases in The Dalles/Wasco County Public Library. New charts will be filed in the Additions Section.
In the last Tales & Trails, Volume 17, Number 2, April 2003, Page 17, the article about the Klickitat County, Washington Atlas gave a phone number to call regarding purchase of said Atlas. I repeatedly call the listed number, but each time was told no number was available. I would like to talk with A. R. Whitmore before purchasing the Atlas. Would you be so kind to check on the correct telephone number for me. I have been researching the William G. Thompson and John S. Burgen families for several years. The Thompson homestead was where the aluminum plant and John Day Dam is now located. Burgen place south of Goldendale about 4-5 miles on the old Columbus highway. Anyway, hoping the plat book available will help me.

A Warm Welcome to Our New Resident
Helen Reiersen.

Helen was born and raised in Centerville, Washington. She was the youngest of four children born to John and Elizabeth Miller. Her mother died when she was only three years old. Her dad remarried to Lena Hollingsworth and then made Helen big sister to two more children, Jeanne (Hannifan) and Jerry Miller.

Helen’s grandparents were homesteaders, originally from England. Many of her siblings and their families settled in the Centerville valley on their own ranches.

After Helen married Leonard Card, they moved to The Dalles, where they raised their four daughters: Janice Carson, Sydney, Australia; Debbie Card, Eugene, Oregon; Kathy Emmons and Julie Saldivar, The Dalles. Leonard worked for varied car agencies throughout the years, until his death in 1967. Helen later married Irv Reierson.

She’s been a The Dalles resident for over 55 years.

Helen’s first love was being a homemaker and being involved with her children’s activities. She was active in PTA and in her church choir. In later years Helen went to work for The Dalles School District as a teacher’s aide at Thompson and Wilson schools.

One of the things Helen loved to do was work in her garden. Her specialty was her beautiful roses...over 30 bushes!

Helen has five grandchildren, Brett and Laurie (Grenya) Emmons, Jason, Courtney (Judah) and Danny Saldivar. She also has five great-grandchildren, Trevor, Robert, Rachelle, Brandon and Della. Her favorites in life...why, her “grand’s” and “greats,” of course!

By the way, I’ve also had the privilege of meeting Helen’s live-in companion Annie, and she is a beauty! She has the most gorgeous green eyes and wears black & white so stylishly!

Annie is not the run of the mill feline, and believe me, she has quite a sense of humor! Why, one night (about 12:00 a.m.) she thought playing a game of “bat the string” would be lots of fun, so while Helen was sleeping she batted and swung

She was having so much fun she thought having a playmate would be really great so she invited Rolly to play too!

While that was an invitation he wasn’t expecting, he hastily responded!

One can well imagine his relief when he found there was “no emergency” after all, only Annie playing!

Needless to say, Helen has now explained to Annie that the cord coming from the wall is attached to an emergency alarm and that she is not allowed to play “bat the string” with it any more!

IN MEMORIAM

Carolyn Marie Hammond, 88, a resident of The Dalles, passed away March 29, 2003, at a local care facility.

She was born in Mosier (Oregon) on October 17, 1914, to Hannah and John Davenport, both having been born in The Dalles of pioneer families. She is survived by her daughter Carita, and son Philip.

Her interests ranged from crafts and gardening to traveling the United States and foreign countries.

Dear Friends:

I am enclosing a small donation to your Society for the wonderful work that one of your members did for me recently. Her name is Earline Wasser, and she is a dedicated, efficient lady.

The obituary that she found for me will be most helpful in my search, and I thank her, very much.

I am Researcher for the Tulsa Genealogical Society, and also volunteer in the Genealogy Center of the Public library system here in Tulsa. If I can ever be of assistance to any of your members, please call on me.

Sincerely,

WOMEN WHO EARN THEIR LIVING

It has been frequently estimated that a third of the women in the United States-exclusive of farmers’ wives-are earning their living. (The farmers’ wives earn it, honestly enough; but whether they get it or not is another thing.)

Where a century ago the main occupation allowed to women was house work with a little sewing or nursing of the lower grades; now the nurses are trained nurses, the seamstress has become the prosperous dressmaker, even the house servant is on the verge of organization and advancement.

Quite beyond these ancient lines of service our modern women are steadily increasing in numbers in every kind of human work. Some statistics gathered from the last census showed women engaged even in such occupations as these:

- Stock raisers and drovers .................. 1947
- Lumbermen .................................. 100
- Woodchoppers ................................. 113
- Civil engineers and surveyors .................. 84
- Longshoremen ................................ 12
- Stevedores .................................. 21
- Watchmen and policemen ..................... 879
- Boatmen and sailors .......................... 154
- Pilots ....................................... 5
- Carriage and hack drivers .................... 43
- Blacksmiths .................................. 196
- Railway baggagemen ......................... 10
- Brakemen .................................... 31
- Conductors .................................. 7
- Switchmen and yardmen ...................... 25
- Ship carpenters ............................... 6
- Masons ...................................... 167
- Plumbers and fitters .......................... 126
- Fishermen and oystermen ..................... 1805
- Miners and quarrymen ......................... 1370
- Authors and scientists ......................... 2616
- And 1320 women as guides, trappers, hunters and scouts.

These last are amazing trades for wives and mothers surely; and probably are pursued by those yet unmarried or whose children are grown; but they serve as a starting index to the latitude of professions now open to women.

CDM Farm was located east of Mosier, Oregon

By member Rose Denslinger

Like many Oregonians, I was born in Oklahoma, in a small town. Ada is located in Pontotoc county and today, 2003, we still have family that lives there.

After my parents, Paul Lee and Martha Marie (George) Simpson divorced in the summer of 1944, we moved into Ada from our Grandfather Simpson’s farm to live with our Grandmother, Susie Elizabeth (Bishop) Vibbard. Her husband, Cecil, a soldier in the Army, was over seas in the Philippines. It was a difficult time for my parents, so in January of 1945, my Mother and Grandmother decided we would move to Oregon where my Grandmother’s brother Bill Bishop and his family lived. We, my Mother, Grandmother, younger sister, Wilma Lee, and brother Richard Lee came by train to Mosier, Oregon. Most of the people on the train were soldiers being moved to different camps. There was not a food service on that train, so when the train would stop, either Mother or Granny would get off and buy food for us. There were no McDonalds then so it was mostly peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, fruit and milk. We thought it was very good.

Uncle Bill worked for the railroad and we stayed with them until Mother found work. My Mother went to the grocery store. While visiting with the grocer, she told him that she and Grandmother were looking for any kind of work. He sent her to see Cal Rice who was the foreman of the CDM ranch. Both were hired. Not only did they get wages but a house to live in came with the job.

It was a fair size house consisting of a living room, dining room, a small kitchen and four small bedrooms. Mom tells us that two of the rooms were only big enough for beds, but in that time, it was a lot of room for us. The house had a large covered front porch and an enclosed back porch. There was a spring behind the house where Mother had a big box with a screen top that the water flowed through that she used for a refrigerator. She would put any thing she wanted to keep cold in jars, seal them tight and place them in the box. It was a very cold spring. I think our drinking water came from that spring also. Other people also had their screen covered boxes and their food in the spring.

There were several other houses on the farm. Earnest and Birdie Bishop had a small two bedroom house. Mr. and Mrs. Kendall had a fairly large house. And Roy Nichoels and his wife lived down by the lake. Other people who worked there lived in Mosier. There were a few other people living there in other houses but we have forgotten the names.

There were some orchards of peaches, pears and cherries and row crops of strawberries, cantaloupes, green beans, early peas, bell peppers and early and late crop potatoes. My Mother and Granny worked where ever they were needed. We children were either with Mother or Granny. In the spring they planted the row crops and hoed weeds from the row crops and around every tree in the orchard. Mr. Nichoels drove the tractor and cultivator between the rows but could not get too close to the trees so the weeds had to be hoed out. The orchards were kept free of weeds as they did not grow a cover crop under trees at that time.

Mr. Nichoels drove the tractor that pulled the strawberry planting machine. It had four iron seats on it for four people to plant strawberries but my Mother, Marie and her friend A vanile Kimball, were the only ones who worked on it. The machine had a clicker on it that clicked each time they were to plant a strawberry plant. There were 1000 plants per row and each person planted two rows as they moved up the rows. There were 55 acres of strawberries. Keith Coburn told them they did a better job than the four men that was on the same type of machine at his Dayton (Oregon) farm.

Mr. Nichoels also drove the tractor that pulled the potato planting machine. It had one iron seat on it and my Mother, Marie worked on it. It was a bouncy machine. One day it came loose from the tractor, flipped up in the air, dumped Mother off and then fell on her leg. Nothing was broken, but she was badly bruised up. She was told to take a day off while they repaired the machine, and then was back to work the following day planting potatoes. They did not have OWCP then. No work, No pay, so she went right back out on the machine. They planted early and late potatoes.

I asked Mother how many hours a day they worked. They were in the field at 7AM and didn’t finish their day until 7PM. Seven days a week.

At Harvest time, a group of Indian families camped by the lake and helped pick the crops. The ladies picked with their babies in the boards on their backs. My Mother is very fast with her hands but said that most of the Indian ladies were faster. The Indian men did pick the crops but were not as fast as the women.

I remember the packing houses for both the strawberries and cantaloupes. They were basically roofs over the dirt floor so the sun was kept off the fruit. There was always a wonderful smell of what ever fruit was being packed.
Today, the cantaloupes that we buy just aren’t as good as what we had there. They were ready to eat when picked, packed the same day and hauled to market in the early morning for sales the next day.

My Grandmother, Susie loved to fish. After work, she would go down to the lake and catch fish for our dinner. To this day, I really like any kind of fish. Granny did not care what she caught, she was happy to be fishing. She sang and some times whistled while she was fishing. Often one of us would go with her and walk along with her.

I had been in first grade in Ada, OK, but when we moved to Oregon, Mom did not put me back in school. So that September, my Sister, Wilma and I both started school in Mosier. In October my Mother married Cal (Clarence Walter) Rice. They bought a home in Cherry Park, east of The Dalles, and we moved. Dad had four daughters from his first marriage. Anita & Luvilla were in high school and chose to stay with their Grandparents (Edna and Ernest Evans). His younger daughters, Sharon & Coetta moved to The Dalles with us. Coetta was a few months older than Wilma so all three of us were in the same grade. Sharon was a year older than me so was two grades ahead of us.

That fall, Grandpa Cecil came home from the war. He and my grandmother moved to Dayton (Oregon) to work for Keith Coburn. They continued to work for Mr. Coburn and in the summer we would take turns going to stay with them and pick strawberries or green beans. We used the money for our school clothes.

One year we’d pick berries, and then the next year we’d pick beans. You stood up and picked beans, so that part was easier and you were mostly crawling down between the rows to pick the berries, but you could sample the berries and berries right out of the field are the best. The berries had to be picked with just the right amount of stem. Being the grandchildren meant we had to do it right. It was expected of us.

My Grandmother died in January of 1952 and Grandpa Cecil died in May of 1960.

Now when we drive down I-84, there is still one house and the lake you can see from the freeway, but row crops were plowed up and a very neat cherry orchard is there now.

Carson Items

J.W. Page, of Neilswill, Wisconsin, is at Carson again for the summer. He will assist the Wind River Lumber Company in their logging operations. E.C. Young has also returned to take up his former work with the same company.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Clairmore, a daughter. Although Mr. Clainmore is very proud of his daughter, his pride is equaled by Chas. Malley, the grandfather.

Correction—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roberson, a son—not a daughter as was formerly reported to the Pioneer. We hope this correction will appease Mr. Roberson’s wrath.

Mrs. Thos. Monaghan, accompanied by her son and daughter, returned from Portland Monday.

Carson now has a resident blacksmith W.C. Spansel, formerly of Portland. Since Mr. Spansel arrived he has done a rushing business.

The Oregon Newspaper Project is currently emerging from a period of reorganization, and I would like to take this opportunity to acquaint you with the project if you are new to us, and to provide those of you already familiar with the project with some of the changes that we've recently made.

ONP was established in 1952 as a joint effort by the Oregon Newspaper Association and the University of Oregon Library to preserve and archive Oregon newspapers on microfilm. The project expanded steadily with the help of libraries and historical societies across Oregon, and today there are over 1300 historic and current titles in the collection.

An important component of ONP's mission is to make the collection available to the community at large. Copies of the microfilm are available both through subscription and one-time orders. The cost of the copies is set as low as possible in order to make it affordable to libraries, organizations, and individuals and yet help ONP recoup some of the expenses incurred by the project.

As ONP celebrates its 51st birthday, we encourage the greater Oregon community to continue its active participation in ONP by helping us to further expand the collection and by spreading the word of the collection and services. To these ends, I have enclosed some information about ONP and a list of the newspapers that we currently film; please feel free to contact us if you have any questions about the project or would like to inquire about any of the historical papers we have on microfilm.

Sincerely, Lesli Larson

The Oregon Newspaper Project today is a collaborative effort between Oregon's newspaper publishers and the University of Oregon to preserve and archive Oregon newspapers on microfilm. Their goal was to preserve Oregon's historical record as it was documented in new print, stored in collections but deteriorating due to the fragile nature of the medium. In the early years of the project, papers dating from the 19th century onward and from every corner of the state were filmed. As work in this early phase neared completion, focus shifted to the preservation of current-day newspapers, and today ONP films over 100 Oregon titles.

While work is not quite finished on the largest portion of the project—the filming of the Morning Oregonian/Oregonian (1900-1948) - several of the new titles filmed as part of United States Newspaper Project are now filmed on a regular basis for ONP. Another important effect of USNP was the adoption of national standards in preservation microfilm. This higher standard not only improved the quality of the copies provided to patrons, but increased ONP's future options for other types of second-generation copies, both analog and digital.

After the USNP grant came to an end, ONP underwent a period of re-organization and today continues as a part of the newly created Image Services Center. Image Services is still in its infancy and rapidly expanding the services it provides to the UO and greater Oregon community. This diversity of services, however, will not detract from what is considered to be ONP/Image Services' core mission, to preserve and archive Oregon history through microfilm reformatting of its newspaper.

GENEALOGY CLASS DESCRIPTIONS

[1G] Thursday 9 am  The Basics of Family History
The research process is done in a 5-step cycle. Start with yourself, work backwards in the repeating research cycle and keep track of what you did. This simple, systematic process allows you to discover your family roots.

[2G] Thursday 10:30 am  The Basics of Using Records for Research
Proper accumulation of acceptable evidence. Genealogy records need to be analyzed to be understood. Learn how to evaluate the evidence you find and make good use of the information.

[3G] Thursday 3 pm  Research Logs, To Do Lists and Calendars
Learn how to use Research Logs, To Do lists and a research Calendar—essential tools for successful genealogy research. Discover ways to keep research notes and new ways to keep this information on the computer.

[4G] Thursday 4:30 pm  The Family History Library Catalog
The Family History Library has millions of records and your ancestors may be identified in one or more of them. But all these records can’t help you if you can’t find them. Learn how the Family History Library Catalog organizes and describes records so you can find and use them.

[5G] Friday 9 am  The Big 4 U.S. Record Sources
Use census, vital, land and probate records to find your American ancestors. Learn about each of these records, where to find them, and how to use them effectively in your research.

Learn about each of the features on the website http://www.FamilySearch.org and how they can help you find your ancestors.

[7G] Friday 3 pm  Organizing Your Paper Files in a Computer Day & Age (2 hr)
A simple system to organize your genealogy records is essential to research success. Family Roots Organizer has been developed to solve this problem. The system is easy to understand, simple to set up and to use. The new workshop format makes it easier to understand how to set up and use the system.

[8G] Saturday 9 am  Wonderful Web Sites for the Genealogist
More and more actual records, as well as excellent instructional material are available for genealogists on the Internet. Learn about the most current web sites to help your research efforts.
